WEATHER KEY POINTS

08/18/21 - 08/24/21

Wednesday-Tuesday

- Critical fire weather conditions continue across the northwest mountains, mountains surrounding the Bay Area, Diablo Range, and much of the Sacramento Valley through Wednesday evening as north to northeast winds gust 25 to locally 45 mph and humidity values drop into the 5-20% range
  - Offshore winds may continue overnight into Thursday with north winds potentially redeveloping in the northern Sacramento Valley and North/East Bay Areas
  - Critical fire weather conditions continue for eastern Mendocino and Lake Counties into midday Thursday
- Additional much more localized elevated fire weather conditions are expected through early next week across the mountains and foothills where winds will be locally breezy
  - Some additional widespread stronger winds could develop by Sunday or Monday across northern and central California, though forecast confidence remains low at this time
- Across the Antelope Valley, southwest winds 25 to 30 mph with gusts up to 45 mph are expected Wednesday
- Some light drizzle is possible across coastal southern California through tonight, with otherwise dry weather expected for the state into the weekend
- Periods of thicker wildfire smoke will remain across northern and central California, bringing reduced visibility and air quality at times through at least this weekend
